INTERNATIONAL MASTERS PROGRAMME

Universities of the Consortium:
This 2-year International Masters Programme in comparative literature and inter-media studies offers a unique opportunity to enjoy high quality academic standards in three different Universities among the seven involved in the Crossways Consortium worldwide.

If you are an undergraduate student, in the field of Humanities/Arts/Social Sciences/Languages, this Masters programme is for you.

The Masters programme Crossways in Cultural Narratives’ main target is to provide to students a wide understanding of Arts by generating knowledge, understanding and transferable skills:

> to provide future managers with top-class methodological and communicative skills required in people who are to play key roles in international exchanges, national administrations, parliamentary research, large media groups.

> to provide doctoral researchers and managers alike with an inventive flexibility of mind by promoting teamwork and teaching practices which exceed national particularities.

> to promote fruitful networking between different areas of knowledge, research, and discovery in the study-fields related to European cultural identities.

CWCN offers a two-year Master’s programme in which students can choose their own mobility track that includes three out of the seven Universities of the consortium.

If the student chooses one of two Associate Universities (USC- Spain and UIA-Mexico), he/she can expect to receive two Masters degrees at the end of the programme.

During the programme, the student writes a dissertation supervised by the Universities B and C. In addition, the student can opt for an internship during Semester 2 or between Semester 2 and 3.
